Discover the raw beauty of the Sierra de Gata, where the stars shine with rare exuberance and nature invites you to leave your worries behind.

This serene paradise in the province of Cáceres is home to an eco-hotel surrounded by oak, olive and cork oak trees. 600 sqm of otherworldly loveliness presiding over a 10-hectare estate, a refuge for those seeking the restorative powers of nature, this property is also a prime opportunity for a buyer with an eye for the extraordinary.

The accommodation comprises four self-contained guest rooms, each with private terrace and direct access to the countryside, plus three further bedrooms in the main building. Currently lodging a succession of delighted guests, this pearl is versatile and could easily be converted into a stunning second home.

Picture yourself settling down in the mellow living room to decompress and enjoy the view, after a delicious meal prepared in the gleaming and well-equipped kitchen.

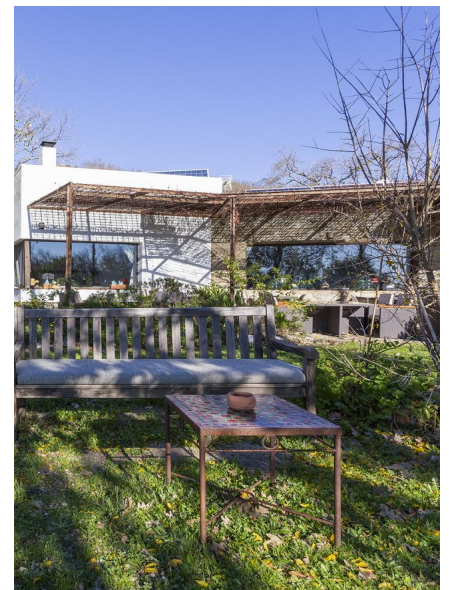

This property's most exquisite treasure, however, is its 18-metre swimming pool: relaxation central for you and your guests. Imagine gazing at hypnotic sunsets and a night sky brimming with stars, as clear as the remotest deserts on Earth.

Beyond lies the expanse of the Sierra de Gata, an unsung paradise in Extremadura inviting you to discover its villages, mountains, rivers and forests – and to savour its delectable cuisine. Naturalists will be enraptured by the local birdlife, including vultures, black storks, golden orioles and more.

Time moves more slowly here, enticing you to fall back into the rhythms of the natural world. With next to no pollution you can breathe deeply, while the only sounds to disturb the stillness are birdsong, distant cow bells and the gentle chirping of crickets.

Indulge in the region's culinary delights as you discover the often overlooked treasures of this corner of Extremadura and neighbouring Portugal.

Welcome to your own slice of heaven on Earth: a place to find serenity in the open arms of nature.
